

Five Important Ways to Support the Annual Seabeck Conference

For more than fifty years the members of the Oregon and Western Washington Fellowship of Reconciliation have shared the Fourth of July holiday together at the Annual Seabeck Conference. We gather together with one another to sustain and build our common values around justice and peace-making. Many of us also find Seabeck to be a personal retreat - a time to "recharge our batteries" before settling back to our commitments at home, work and in the world. We're asking that all those who love and care about the Annual Seabeck Conference take some steps to support planning efforts for our upcoming conference on July 2-5, 2010.

1. Sharing Fellowship at Seabeck with Denominational Peace Groups. We are encouraging peace fellowship groups to join us at Seabeck in 2010. Our goal is to share the conference with those who wish to bring new perspectives and ideas. We would also welcome workshop ideas from different denominational groups. Contact your denomination's peace fellowship leadership to discuss this opportunity.

2. Sponsor Individuals & Families to Attend Seabeck with Denominational Support. The Seabeck Conference provides a great venue for representatives of peace fellowships or congregations to network with other activists. The conference provides a supportive climate for mutual understanding and productive exchanges. Encourage your congregation to support the participation of its members in the conference.

3. Send a Contribution to Help Cover General Conference Expenses. Conducting a major conference is expensive and each year we experience increased costs for presenters' travel, equipment rentals, and other expenses. Your direct contribution to the conference can help offset these costs. We would welcome your contribution made payable to: "2010 Seabeck Conference."

4. Give to the Janet Tone Brown Scholarship Fund. Janet Brown was a long-time National and Oregon FOR Board member. Through the years, Janet led Oregon's Seabeck Conference planning efforts and took on the challenging task of conference registrar. We encourage you to make a donation to "2010 Seabeck Conference - Janet Brown Scholarship Fund" so that people living on a limited income can attend the conference.

5. Pre-Register for the Conference. Help us ensure that we recruit enough attendees to maintain our conference. In recent years, we have struggled to meet our 200 person commitment to Seabeck Conference Center. Don't wait - let us know you're coming! You'll find the pre-registration form and self-addressed envelope in this packet.

Questions? Contact John Roy Wilson, Conference Co-Chair, at (503) 585-5436 or jrw45@comcast.net/Janet Hawkins, Conference Co-Chair, at (503) 244-7703 or janetchawkins@msn.com.